Denk Pharma to Attend ESC Congress in Madrid with International Cardiology Experts

Munich/Madrid, 08 August 2025 – Denk Pharma is pleased to announce that it will be attending the European Society of Cardiology (ESC) Congress 2025 in Madrid, Spain, from 29 August to 1 September. As part of our commitment to advancing cardiovascular care worldwide, 75 international cardiology experts from Denk Pharma's global medical network will join the leading cardiology event.

Dr. Fernando Guzman, Head of Medical Affairs, will represent Denk Pharma on site, accompanied by his expert team. They will actively engage in key scientific sessions, collect the latest developments in cardiovascular research, therapies and clinical practice. The findings and insights gathered will be consolidated into a comprehensive post-congress brochure designed to facilitate the transfer of medical knowledge within our professional community.

'At Denk Pharma, we see the ESC Congress as a unique opportunity to elevate global standards in cardiology through informed exchange,' says Dr. Fernando Guzman, Head of Medical Affairs at Denk Pharma. 'With our international presence and medical expertise, we're well positioned to support physicians and partners in applying the most recent clinical evidence in their local practice.'

To encourage more in-depth discussions within the medical community, you can schedule appointments with our medical team in advance. This initiative underlines Denk Pharma's ongoing efforts to encourage collaborative knowledge sharing and scientific engagement across borders.

In addition to providing live updates, Denk Pharma will showcase highlights from key presentations, emerging therapies and clinical trial results throughout the event on its website, social media channels and the digital hub. The Quality meets Expertise Hub is a dedicated platform offering exclusive webinars by leading physicians as well as easily accessible insights, including the latest clinical studies available for download.
